

2016 SFL YOUNG WORKERS' CONFERENCE

REGISTER TODAY

The Saskatchewan Federation of Labour (SFL) Young Workers' Conference is an opportunity for young trade unionists from across the province to come together to learn about issues affecting workers, develop new skills, and strategize about how to make our unions and labour movement even stronger.

The conference will run over two days in Saskatoon and feature an impressive list of issue sessions, skills workshops, and guest speakers. Stay in touch for updates on conference content and speakers by visiting the "conferences" section of www.sfl.sk.ca as well as at www.facebook.com/SKFedofLabour.

Important to note: the SFL's annual Youth Action Summit has been incorporated into the Young Workers' Conference. The first day of the conference will be open to registered young workers sent by unions only, and the second day of the conference will be the Youth Action Summit – open to any young person to attend. Therefore if a young worker is registered for the Young Workers' Conference they are automatically registered for the Youth Action Summit.
